Energy assistance still available to Idaho residents

Community Action Partnership knows that each year, thousands of Idaho residents need a little help making ends meet. Idaho energy assistance programs can help when you need it most—right now!

If your household has not received energy assistance since November 2009 and is within the income limits listed below, you may qualify to receive from $108 to $529 toward your energy bill.

Households who qualify consist of:

- 1 individual with a maximum monthly income of $1575
- 2 individuals with a maximum monthly household income of $2059
- 3 individuals with a maximum monthly household income of $2544
- 4 individuals with a maximum monthly household income of $3028

Please contact your local Community Action Partnership regarding income limits for larger households.

Please call 1-800-326-4843 or stop in at your local Community Action Partnership for an energy assistance appointment. Community Action Partnership offices in north central Idaho are located in Grangeville, Kamiah, Lewiston, Moscow and Orofino. Office hours are 9 am to 4 pm.
